YOUTH DROWNS IN DELAWARE

Flossy Hits Mainland, 2 Are Killed

NEW ORLEANS—(UP)—Hurricane Flossy left two dead and a trail of foundered ships in the Gulf today and thundered across open water in the direction of the Alabama-Florida coast with winds of 100 miles an hour.

At least 47 persons were clinging to ships or oil drilling rigs in the storm-tormented waters of the gulf. Flossy's center 80 miles southwest of Biloxi, Miss. The howler was moving to the east-northeast at 12 miles an hour.

The year's sixth tropical hurricane drove thousands from their homes in Plaquemines Parish, the low finger pointed to the south-east on the Louisiana coast, and in Mississippi.

One crew member drowned and another died trying to save him when Flossy raked the motor vessel Carport. Eighteen men and two women rode out the storm on the ship 40 miles off the southern tip of Plaquemines.

To Strike Florida

The weather bureau predicted the main force of the blow would smack the coast between Pensacola and Apalachicola, Fla., this afternoon or tonight.

Flossy whipped in from the gulf across the southern end of Plaquemines at 80 miles an hour then quickly shifted into high gear again over the open sea.

South Alabama, Georgia and extreme northwest Florida were cautioned to be watchful for heavy rains ahead of the hurricane and possible floods.

Five Coast Guard cutters toiled through the stormy night and three Navy and two coast guard helicopters were in the air at dawn to resume rescue efforts.

Gulf coast residents from Mobile, Ala., to Pensacola, Fla., stepped up preparations for Flossy this morning after she hit the coast east of New Orleans with but a glancing blow and headed out over open water again.

A weather bulletin at 7 a.m. CST said the hurricane had winds estimated around 100 miles an hour near the center. At that hour Flossy was about 100 miles south-west of the Mobile-Pensacola area.

U.S. Stiffens Canal Stand

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. UP—Britain and France take the Suez Canal crisis to the United Nations Security Council Wednesday, bolstered by signs that American patience with Egypt was running short.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles indicated a hardening attitude in a television broadcast when he said the "danger of war would recur" if Egypt rejects further efforts by the West to find a just and lawful solution to the problem.

"I don't think you can expect to go on forever asking nations not to resort to force," Dulles said. His statement was in apparent answer to Anglo-French criticism that his blunt rejection of force had strengthened Egypt's hand.

Throughout the long negotiations on some means of solving the crisis, Britain and France have insisted that force would be used as a "last resort" to ensure that the Suez Canal returns to international operation and that their supplies get through.

May Ask For Funds

Dulles, while hardening his stand against Egypt, gave another indication of being willing to mollify Britain and France. He said he would ask the Treasury to permit U. S. ships to pay their canal tolls into the canal's blocked accounts rather than turning the money over to Egypt.

This would cut sharply into Egypt's cash return from the canal and weaken Nasser economically—as Britain and France have wanted to do all along.

Indian Summer Mercury Hits 87

The Indian Summer temperature hit 87 degrees in Lower Bucks yesterday but was not a record-breaker.

It was 87 at 4 p.m. The coldest hour yesterday was 60, at 3 a.m. The U. S. Weather Bureau forecast cooler weather today, with the heavy rains clearing. Temperatures today and tomorrow were predicted, not to pass the 60's.

18 Injured On Turnpike

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. UP—A Philadelphia-to-New York excursion bus skidded and overturned in a heavy rainstorm on the New Jersey Turnpike early today, injuring 18 persons, two seriously.

State police said the bus, carrying 38 members of an Irish field hockey club, ran off the turnpike's northbound lane in nearby Cranbury township.

O'Connor said the trapped passengers "screamed and cried for help."

State police and four ambulances removed the trapped passengers through a broken windshield.

Bus driver Willard R. Miller, 29, of New York, said the bus suddenly skidded out of control, ran 20 feet off the highway, and overturned.

Good Evening!

Flossy kicking up her heels.

Hurricane off the Louisiana coast busting things around, and the sooner it busts out to sea the better.

Another month to go in this Delaware Valley region, and the storm season will be done. Hold your breath, cross your fingers, and keep on living right—up to now we've been lucky.

You know, those Cincinnati Redlegs could do it.

They're only a game and a half out of first, with the Dodgers sliding a half game on the Braves win over the Cubs.

We still like Brooklyn. But if they skid too far, we'd like to see the Reds on top.

Political pot boiling more merrily than ever.

Thank heavens it'll all be over in six weeks or so, and everybody can get back to normal. Also, everybody will be able to see a much better county-wide, country-wide perspective.

Meantime, keep remembering the big United Fund campaign begins next Monday.

Also remember that this is a cause every man, woman and child in Lower Bucks county must support quickly, enthusiastically and generously. No sir, you just can't afford to be unneighborly.

The gals sometimes complain of being short on dresses, but we hear no complaints about dresses being short on gals.

In order to buy one we wish we had as much change as they say the new 1957 cars will have.

Watch your driving.

Pretty Blonde Held On Gambling Charge

An attractive Nottingham Village blonde is undergoing a hearing on gambling charges today in the 15th police district court, Philadelphia, it was reported by the city's Police Commissioner's Special Squad.

Mrs. Margaret Clark, 28, of 3701 Devenshire road, was arrested Saturday following a raid by detectives at an apartment on Cottman street near Ryan avenue, Philadelphia.

The apartment, where Mrs. Clark was found alone, was described as a "drop" for a large numbers and horse bet ring. It had been under watch for some time, the commissioner's office reported this morning.

Mrs. Clark was busy on a telephone when the raiders, led by Lt. Joseph O'Neill, head of the special squad, crashed through the door of the second floor flat at 4:35 p.m. Saturday.

O'Neill said his men found 500 horse bets on a table, with 600 numbers plays, totaling $3000.

The commissioner's office also reported that a Colt automatic was found in the room near the woman. Large tally sheets were in the apartment, and it was reported that the place was a center point for a horse-numbers system.

Philadelphia's special squad is used in the investigating of vice and gambling.

Learner Hits Parked Cars

"I couldn't straighten the wheel out in time."

That was the explanation a Philadelphia woman gave police Sunday afternoon after she rammed two cars parked at a stop sign while turning off Route 13 into Knights road in Bensalem township.

Driving with a learner's permit, Hanita P. Saymon, 21, 7801 Roosevelt boulevard, Philadelphia, bounced into the first car, ricocheted off, and smacked the second vehicle. She was accompanied by a licensed driver, Leon Saymon of the same address.

The first automobile, belonging to Helen J. Bay, 33, 218 Baldwin street, Philadelphia, was hit in the left fender and slightly damaged.

Suffering the brunt of the learner's misdirection was James H. McMerdie, 43, 6125 Alma street, Philadelphia. Damage to his vehicle, which had to be towed away, was estimated at $450.

The Saymon car damage was estimated at $250. No personal injuries were reported and no charges were made.

Friends Watch While Victim Goes Under

Think Strong Swimmer Joking As Beach Party Ends In Fatality

The family of a 23-year-old Philadelphia youth who drowned in the Delaware river early yesterday morning believe that the youth, an expert swimmer, hit a submerged object when he dived in the water.

He was swimming back from a boat to a "beach party" being held on land at the mouth of the Neshaminy creek.

The victim, Michael J. Hanczar, Jr., of 5146 Leiper street, Philadelphia, had served as a skin diver with Army amphibious engineers during the Korean war.

He met his death when he tried to swim back from an out-board motor boat, anchored 20 feet offshore at the mouth of the creek.

Cuts and bruises about the face led authorities to believe he struck some object on the bottom of the river when he dove off the boat. His family reported that both his eyes were blacked and his forehead and nose were scraped. The blow may have stunned him for he called for help.

His friends, knowing Hanczar was a good swimmer, first thought he was joking.

Beach Party

He, his father, Michael J. Hanczar, Sr., of the same address, and three married couples went to the spot for a beach party.

The father and one of the couples left by boat to go back to their cars, parked at a nearby boat yard, at 12:30 a.m. While they were gone one of the other couples, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas VanHorn, of 1109 Karen avenue, Croydon Acres, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cottoman, 1309 Susan avenue, Croydon Acres, said they wanted potatoes to roast. It was shortly before 2 a.m.

Hanczar said he had some on his boat and stripped down to his bathing trunks, which he wore under his clothes, as the others protested.

He swam the short distance to the boat, picked up a few potatoes, and dove in to swim back.

Poor Swimmers

After he called his friends were unable to find him in the dark and became alarmed. None of those on shore was a good swimmer and none ventured out after him.

The elder Hanczar and the other couple returned to the scene shortly afterward. They searched the water around the boat. When he didn't find anything the father went back to the boat yard and summoned help.

Units of the Interstate Marine Association dragged the area over three hours before the crew from the Bucks County Rescue Squad found the body, about 75 feet off shore in 15 feet of water.

Popular Spot

The victim's mother said the parties all had boats and often had beach parties at the spot, which is on the Bensalem township side of the creek.

Funeral services will be held at 11:30 a.m., Thursday, from the Edward Peter funeral home, Philadelphia.

In addition to his father the victim is survived by his mother, Louise, a brother, Harry, a sister, Mrs. Patricia Lavin, and a sister, Anna, all of Philadelphia.

Comanto Head Campaign For Brennan

Thomas F. Coman, secretary of Bristol Township Commissioners and a leader in the township's Democratic club, will manage the campaign of Assemblyman A. Patrick Brennan (D, 2, Bucks) for reelection in Bristol township, it was revealed today.

Mr. Coman made the announcement himself in a special statement released from the club's headquarters on Route 13, Croydon.

"Proper school facilities are a nationwide problem, of concern to everyone," Coman said in his statement. "Brennan has shown during his present term that he is capable of meeting that problem."

Mr. Brennan introduced the bill that has made possible a head start on construction of the Bucks County Vocational High school, Coman stated.

Furthermore, Coman said, "Brennan has taken the forefront in every fight for increased appropriations for schools in his district. In a large measure we must credit him with the fact that the end of overcrowding in Bristol Township schools is in sight."

"Also, we would not have been able to provide the transportation for handicapped children to schools, nor would many another community in Pennsylvania, if it were not for Pat Brennan," Coman declared.

Duff Asks For Probe

WASHINGTON UP — Sen. James H. Duff, (R-Pa.) said today that the Justice Department will investigate whether Pennsylvania Democrats violated federal election laws by putting pressure on state government employees.

Duff made the announcement in a statement after calling on Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers.

His statement said there has been "unprecedented and outrageous violations of the state law in making correct public employees" in Pennsylvania.

Duff said he called on Rogers to determine whether there have been violations of federal law.

"I related certain specific situations to Mr. Rogers," Duff said. "He intends to examine federal law with respect to the facts I gave him. If he finds federal statutes have been violated appropriate action will be taken."

Duff did not disclose what information he gave Rogers.

Seeing Levittown

By JIM ORT

The new Five Corners Shopping Center is slated to have a large size restaurant we hear. Understand that it will try to attract the civic clubs. Success of the venture, the owners feel, depends on whether a liquor license is forthcoming.

One little Levittown girl was perplexed recently when visiting a friend's non-Levittown ranch home. The five-year-old confidently started to place the powder room in her house and all her girl friend's homes, but found a large size bedroom instead. New directions helped, but she still is a little confused.

This is national dog week. Be kind to your pooch. Incidentally, anyone who wants a 3 months old, black, part cocker spaniel puppy, call WI 5-3936. The puppy is well mannered, according to its owner, but it fights with the couple's two and a half year old son. The people love the dog, but it's a choice between the canine and the boy.

Speaking of dogs, Gram's Dog Obedience School will get underway Saturday afternoon, Sept. 29. The course runs for 10 weeks and is for beginners. That is, dogs six months and over. For more information call WI-6-0549.

Local To Seat New Officers

James Costa in a second election, was recently elected president of Local Union 5030, United Steelworkers of America, National Tube Works, Morrisville.

Mr. Costa won out over Edward Winters, the incumbent. The balloting was the result of an election held June 19, which, was thrown out over discrepancies, a spokesman said.

Installation will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Union Hall, 35 Union street, Morrisville.

Other officers to be installed include: William Miller, vice president; Michael Capone, recording secretary; Frank Hartman, financial secretary; Nicholas Fowler, treasurer; and Richard Waters, trustee.

Elected to the grievances committees of the three zones were: President James Costa, zone one; Theodore Koehler, zone two; and William Brown, zone three.

Zoning Change Stirs Citizens In Bensalem

By MAURY ALLEN
Courier and Times Staff Writer

The roll of thunder is expected Thursday night from the citizens of Bensalem township at an open meeting on a proposed zoning change.

The zoning change, if accepted, will allow for 1600 semi-attached homes to be built near the center of the township in the vicinity of Byberry and Mechanicsville roads. The present area, considered for zoning purposes R1 and R2, does not permit semi-attached homes.

Strong feeling has been aroused about the change, and the largest crowd ever to attend a meeting in Bensalem township is expected. No definite place for the meeting has been set as yet.

Supporters contend the developer, Maurice Henkins of Philadelphia, will construct a much needed sewage system with the new homes. Running from Mill Creek Water Shed into Neshaminy Creek, the system will be a natural inducement for the movement of industry into the area. And industry will then be able to help shoulder the burdens of the heavily taxed area.

Opponents of the proposal believe the change would lead to greater tax burdens. They point out that another 1600 homes will mean a new school, new teachers, added bus needs, and, therefore, heavier dents in their pocket-books. Many also oppose the plan simply on the principle of being against semi-attached dwellings.

A spokesman for the supervisors emphasized that they are mainly interested in lowering taxes. The meeting is a chance for the citizenry to present alternate solutions to the problem if any can be suggested.

Petitions have been circulated in the township and both sides are prepared to attend the meeting with heavy ammunition.

Three Hurt In 2 Crashes

Three persons were slightly injured in two automobile accidents which happened in Middletown Township at the same time last night.

One crash took place, on Route 1 opposite the Oxford Valley Chapel, when a car driven by Matthew Yeck, 62, of 2329 North Park avenue, Philadelphia, pulled into the left hand lane of traffic in front of another car.

The second car, traveling in the same direction, was driven by Seymour Singer, 31, of 569 Sharman lane, near Morrisville. Singer was unable to stop and crashed into Yeck's car.

Singer's two-and-a-half year-old son, Larry, bumped his head in the crash and was taken to Lower Bucks County hospital for treatment.

Injured in the other accident were Frank Elker, 54, of 12 Ash avenue, Langhorne, and his wife, Irene, 49. They were also discharged after treatment. The Bucks County Rescue Squad took all three to the hospital.

Police said James H. Lamb, 37, of Jacksonville, Pa., will receive a summons as a result of the accident which happened at the intersection of the Langhorne-Yardley and Woodbourne roads.

BOSTON — UP — The mystery man of the million-dollar Brink's robbery trial, William Kimball of Stoughton, was arrested by police today shortly after he appeared at Suffolk County courthouse as a defense witness.

Kimball's name first was injected into the trial Thursday when defense Atty. Paul T. Smith asked star government witness Joseph Specs O'Keefe if he knew the man.

The question was excluded by Superior Judge Felix Forte after a bench conference. Smith attempted again to bring Kimball's name into testimony Friday but the question again was excluded.

Investigating officers Cavanaugh and Morris said that Trump told them that he came out of the bar and crossed in front of the car. "It was my fault," he told police. "I shouldn't have crossed the street."

The Bristol corps, who will sponsor the Seventh Annual East-States Junior Drum and Bugle Corps Championship meet at Bristol High School stadium Saturday night, played the same music in the New Jersey parade that they will play in the exhibition that evening.

The Cavaliers' musical selections included two original compositions by their music coach, Walter Fuller. They marched to Mr. Fuller's "Romance" and played his "Indian Sonata" as a concert selection. Other selections by the Bristol cadets included "In a Gypsy Tea Room" and the marches of the universities of Michigan and Minnesota.

Full committee reports will be heard, and the year's budget will be put into shape for presentation to the membership at its first meeting, Tuesday night, Oct. 2. Unit Waiting Installation Of Phones

The Levittown Emergency Squad is expected to complete its move into new quarters at the Bolton Mansion, behind the Bristol Township Municipal building, by this afternoon.

All of the equipment, with the exception of the two ambulances, were moved over the weekend. The ambulances remained at the former headquarters at Beck's Mortuary, Red Cedar drive, Levittown.

The only thing holding up the final move was the installation of telephones in the new buildings. Telephone company employees were working on the change this morning and said the task should be completed today.

To Move Ambulances

As soon as the phones are connected in the new building, which was formerly used by the Levittown Youth association, the ambulances will be transferred.

The squad stated that it hopes to be able to house their ambulances in an old barn located on the property.

Squad members worked throughout the weekend fixing up the new quarters. They were painting, doing carpentry and other jobs. They knocked one partition down to make a large "squad room" on the first floor.

The members still have to finish painting down stairs. When finished there the members will renovate the upstairs rooms.

The two-story stone building was loaned to the squad as a temporary headquarters by Levitt and Sons, Inc. The group moved from Beck's, where it had been since it was organized about 18 months ago, because there was not enough room.

They occupied a garage and basement room at the mortuary.

While preparing to leave the old quarters, the squad set a letter of appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Beck.

The letter read in part: Accepting many inconveniences because our being there, you inspired us with your singleness of purpose, your untiring efforts and your warm friendliness that made our headquarters a home. The Levittown Emergency Squad and the community as a whole owe you both a great deal of thankfulness."

At the same time the squad continued its membership drive. Helmut Goerner, membership chairman, said there is still a need for drivers, nurses and first aid men. He urged all interested residents to contact Mrs. Lynore Feldman, 23 Basswood road, Levittown, Windsor 5-1734.

He said first aid classes have started but new members can still join them.

Labor Units Back Fullam

AF of L and CIO groups of Bucks and Lehigh counties have endorsed John P. Fullam, Democrat, for Congress it was announced today.

Mr. Fullam is seeking the congressional seat from the Eighth district, which includes the two counties.

The endorsement was made in a statement from James J. A. Gallagher, secretary of the Committee on Political Education of the Bucks County Federation of Trade and Industrial Council, AFL-CIO.

"In reviewing Mr. Fullam's background, Labor is convinced of his sincerity and is confident that he will never forsake principle for political expediency," the statement read.

According to the released statement, a committee representing organized labor in the two counties met with Fullam and his Republican opponent, Willard S. Curtin recently.

The two candidates reviewed their background, qualifications and the program on which they are seeking election.

"After extensive deliberation the committee recommended the endorsement of John P. Fullam, as the person who should receive the full and whole-hearted support of the labor movement and the electorate at large."

The recommendation was then presented to the Lehigh County Industrial Union Council, CIO; the Allentown Central Trades and Labor Council, AFL and the Bucks County Council, AFL-CIO.

The three union groups all approved the recommendations.

Flossy Hits Mainland, 2 Are Killed

NEW ORLEANS—(UP)—Hurricane Flossy left two dead and a trail of foundered ships in the Gulf today and thundered across open water in the direction of the Alabama-Florida coast with winds of 100 miles an hour.

At least 47 persons were clinging to ships or oil drilling rigs in the storm-tormented waters of the gulf. Flossy sideswiped New Orleans, 65 miles northwest of her middle, without causing major damage.

The latest advisory on the hurricane, issued by the New Orleans Weather Bureau at 11 a.m., EST, placed Flossy's center 80 miles southwest of Biloxi, Miss. The howler was moving to the east-northeast at 12 miles an hour.

The year's sixth tropical hurricane drove thousands from their homes in Plaquemines Parish, the low finger pointed to the southeast on the Louisiana coast, and in Mississippi.

One crew member drowned and another died trying to save him when Flossy raked the motor vessel Carport. Eighteen men and two women rode out the storm on the ship 40 miles off the southern tip of Plaquemines.

To Strike Florida

The weather bureau predicted the main force of the blow would smack the coast between Pensacola and Apalachicola, Fla., this afternoon or tonight.

Flossy whipped in from the gulf across the southern end of Plaquemines at 80 miles an hour then quickly shifted into high gear again over the open sea.

South Alabama, Georgia and extreme northwest Florida were cautioned to be watchful for heavy rains ahead of the hurricane and possible floods.

Five Coast Guard cutters toiled through the stormy night and three Navy and two coast guard helicopters were in the air at dawn to resume rescue efforts.

Gulf coast residents from Mobile, Ala., to Pensacola, Fla., stepped up preparations for Flossy this morning after she hit the coast east of New Orleans with but a glancing blow and headed out over open water again.

A weather bulletin at 7 a.m. CST said the hurricane had winds estimated around 100 miles an hour near the center. At that hour Flossy was about 100 miles southwest of the Mobile-Pensacola area.

U.S. Stiffens Canal Stand

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. —

Britain and France take the Suez Canal crisis to the United Nations Security Council Wednesday, bolstered by signs that American patience with Egypt was running short.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles indicated a hardening attitude in a television broadcast when he said the "danger of war would recur" if Egypt rejects further efforts by the West to find a just and lawful solution to the problem.

"I don't think you can expect to go on forever asking nations not to resort to force," Dulles said. His statement was in apparent answer to Anglo-French criticism that his blunt rejection of force had strengthened Egypt's hand.

Throughout the long negotiations on some means of solving the crisis, Britain and France have insisted that force would be used as a "last resort" to ensure that the Suez Canal returns to international operation and that their supplies get through.

May Ask For Funds

Dulles, while hardening his stand against Egypt, gave another indication of being willing to mollify Britain and France. He said he would ask the Treasury to permit U. S. ships to pay their canal tolls into the canal's blocked accounts rather than turning the money over to Egypt.

This would cut sharply into Egypt's cash return from the canal and weaken Nasser economically—as Britain and France have wanted to do all along.

The Indian Summer temperature hit 87 degrees in Lower Bucks yesterday but was not a record-breaker.

It was 87 at 4 p.m. The coldest hour yesterday was 60, at 3 a.m. The U. S. Weather Bureau forecast cooler weather today, with the heavy rains clearing. Temperatures today and tomorrow were predicted, not to pass the 60's.

18 Injured On Turnpike

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. —

A Philadelphia-to-New York excursion bus skidded and overturned in a heavy rainstorm on the New Jersey Turnpike early today, injuring 18 persons, two seriously.

State police said the bus, carrying 38 members of an Irish field hockey club, ran off the turnpike's northbound lane in nearby Cranbury township.

O'Connor said the trapped passengers "screamed and cried for help."

State police and four ambulances removed the trapped passengers through a broken windshield.

Bus driver Willard R. Miller, 29, of New York, said the bus suddenly skidded out of control, ran 20 feet off the highway, and overturned.

Good Evening!

Flossy kicking up her heels.

Hurricane off the Louisiana coast busting things around, and the sooner it busts out to sea the better.

Another month to go in this Delaware Valley region, and the storm season will be done. Hold your breath, cross your fingers, and keep on living right—up to now we've been lucky.

You know, those Cincinnati Redlegs could do it.

They're only a game and a half from first, with the Dodgers sliding a half game on the Braves' win over the Cubs.

We still like Brooklyn. But if they skid too far, we'd like to see the Reds on top.

Political pot boiling more merrily than ever.

Thank heavens it'll all be over in six weeks or so, and everybody can get back to normal. Also, everybody will be able to see a much better county-wide, country-wide perspective.

Meantime, keep remembering the big United Fund campaign begins next Monday.

Also remember that this is a cause every man, woman and child in Lower Bucks county must support quickly, enthusiastically and generously. No sir, you just can't afford to be unneighborly.

The gals sometimes complain of being short on dresses, but we hear no complaints about dresses being short on gals.

In order to buy one we wish we had as much change as they say the new 1957 cars will have.

Watch your driving.

Bristol's gigantic auction sale, the first in a week-long series of events celebrating the 275th anniversary of Bristol, will be in the vast Canberra plant of Kaiser Metal Products, Inc., Chairman Stephen P. Midouhas announced today.

The all-day auction will open at 10 a.m., Saturday, Oct. 13, and will feature new and old articles, food, furniture, livestock, antiques and products of local industries.

A committee is making plans to solicit every home in the borough for items to sell.

Assurance

Mr. Midouhas has just been assured the use of a portion of the airplane plant by Fred H. Bechill, vice president and general manager of the Kaiser Firm. The auction chairman made the request with Bristol Burgess Anthony R. Niccol, who is vice president of the Kaiser plant union, Local 130, AFL-CIO United Auto Workers.

The Kaiser firm will move the equipment to make the plant space available Oct. 1, when Mr. Midouhas' committee will begin to move in the auction merchandise. The expansive plant parking lot, entered from Farragut avenue, will be available to visitors to the sale.

"We are happy to have the use of this large building and its parking lot for the auction," Mr. Midouhas said. "I wish to commend the Kaiser firm for its help and community spirit in generously making it available to us."

The plant has been used for assembly of wings for the giant Canberra plane. The Kaiser management has to obtain approval of the U. S. Air Force to hold the auction there.

The auction is designed for two purposes, as a major attraction in

Pretty Blonde Held On Gambling Charge

An attractive Nottingham Village blonde is undergoing a hearing on gambling charges today in the 15th police district court, Philadelphia, it was reported by the city's Police Commissioner's Special Squad.

Mrs. Margaret Clark, 28, of 3701 Devenshire road, was arrested Saturday following a raid by detectives at an apartment on Cottman street near Ryan avenue, Philadelphia.

The apartment, where Mrs. Clark was found alone, was described as a "drop" for a large numbers and horse bet ring. It had been under watch for some time, the commissioner's office reported this morning.

Mrs. Clark was busy on a telephone when the raiders, led by Lt. Joseph O'Neill, head of the special squad, crashed through the door of the second floor flat at 4:35 p.m. Saturday.

O'Neill said his men found 500 horse bets on a table, with 600 numbers plays, totaling $3000.

The commissioner's office also reported that a Colt automatic was found in the room near the woman. Large tally sheets were in the apartment, and it was reported that the place was a center point for a horse-numbers system.

Philadelphia's special squad is used in the investigating of vice and gambling.

Learner Hits Parked Cars

"I couldn't straighten the wheel out in time."

That was the explanation a Philadelphia woman gave police Sunday afternoon after she rammed two cars parked at a stop sign while turning off Route 13 into Knights road in Bensalem township.

Driving with a learner's permit, Hanita F. Saymon, 21, 7801 Roosevelt boulevard, Philadelphia, bounced into the first car, ricocheted off, and smacked the second vehicle. She was accompanied by a licensed driver, Leon Saymon of the same address.

The first automobile, belonging to Helen J. Bay, 33, 218 Baldwin street, Philadelphia, was hit in the left fender and slightly damaged.

Suffering the brunt of the learner's misdirection was James H. McMerdie, 43, 6125 Alma street, Philadelphia. Damage to his vehicle, which had to be towed away, was estimated at $450.

The Saymon car damage was estimated at $250. No personal injuries were reported and no charges were made.

Friends Watch While Victim Goes Under

Think Strong Swimmer Joking As Beach Party Ends In Fatality

The family of a 23-year-old Philadelphia youth who drowned in the Delaware river early yesterday morning believe that the youth, an expert swimmer, hit a submerged object when he dived in the water.

He was swimming back from a boat to a "beach party" being held on land at the mouth of the Neshaminy creek.

The victim, Michael J. Hanczar, Jr., of 5146 Leiper street, Philadelphia, had served as a skin diver with Army amphibious engineers during the Korean war.

He met his death when he tried to swim back from an out-board motor boat, anchored 20 feet offshore at the mouth of the creek.

Cuts and bruises about the face led authorities to believe he struck some object on the bottom of the river when he dove off the boat. His family reported that both his eyes were blacked and his forehead and nose were scraped. The blow may have stunned him for he called for help.

His friends, knowing Hanczar was a good swimmer, first thought he was joking.

Beach Party

He, his father, Michael J. Hanczar, Sr., of the same address, and three married couples went to the spot for a beach party.

The father and one of the couples left by boat to go back to their cars, parked at a nearby boat yard, at 12:30 a.m. While they were gone one of the other couples, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas VanHorn, of 1109 Karen avenue, Croydon Acres, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cottman, 1309 Susan avenue, Croydon Acres, said they wanted potatoes to roast. It was shortly before 2 a.m.

Hanczar said he had some on his boat and stripped down to his bathing trunks, which he wore under his clothes, as the others protested.

He swam the short distance to the boat, picked up a few potatoes, and dove in to swim back.

Poor Swimmers

After he called his friends were unable to find him in the dark and became alarmed. None of those on shore was a good swimmer and none ventured out after him.

The elder Hanczar and the other couple returned to the scene shortly afterward. They searched the water around the boat. When he didn't find anything the father went back to the boat yard and summoned help.

Units of the Interstate Marine Association dragged the area over three hours before the crew from the Bucks County Rescue Squad found the body, about 75 feet off shore in 15 feet of water.

Popular Spot

The victim's mother said the parties all had boats and often had beach parties at the spot, which is on the Bensalem township side of the creek.

Funeral services will be held at 11:30 a.m., Thursday, from the Edward Petner funeral home, Philadelphia.

In addition to his father the victim is survived by his mother, Louise, a brother, Harry, a sister, Mrs. Patricia Lavin, and a sister, Anna, all of Philadelphia.

Ground Breaking For New Church

Ground was broken yesterday afternoon for the new building of the Queen of the Universe Catholic Church in Levittown. The church will be located on the Trenton road between Route 413 and Edgely road in Middletown township. The parish was started Oct. 7 of last year. Turning over the first earth is Father James A. Coyle, pastor of the new church. Watching is Father John Nugent, Dean of Bucks County and pastor of St. Charles Church in Cornwells Heights. (Courier and Times Photo)

Coman to Head Campaign For Brennan

Thomas F. Coman, secretary of Bristol Township Commissioners and a leader in the township's Democratic club, will manage the campaign of Assemblyman A. Patrick Brennan (D, 2, Bucks) for reelection in Bristol township, it was revealed today.

Mr. Coman made the announcement himself in a special statement released from the club's headquarters on Route 13, Croydon.

"Proper school facilities are a nationwide problem, of concern to everyone," Coman said in his statement. "Brennan has shown during his present term that he is capable of meeting that problem."

Mr. Brennan introduced the bill that has made possible a head start on construction of the Bucks County Vocational High school, Coman stated.

Furthermore, Coman said, "Brennan has taken the forefront in every fight for increased appropriations for schools in his district. In a large measure we must credit him with the fact that the end of overcrowding in Bristol Township schools is in sight."

"Also, we would not have been able to provide the transportation for handicapped children to schools, nor would many another community in Pennsylvania, if it were not for Pat Brennan," Coman declared.

Duff Asks For Probe

WASHINGTON UP — Sen. James H. Duff, (R-Pa.), said today that the Justice Department will investigate whether Pennsylvania Democrats violated federal election laws by putting pressure on state government employees.

Duff made the announcement in a statement after calling on Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers.

His statement said there has been "unprecedented and outrageous violations of the state law in making correct public employees" in Pennsylvania.

Duff said he called on Rogers to determine whether there have been violations of federal law.

"I related certain specific situations to Mr. Rogers," Duff said. "He intends to examine federal law with respect to the facts I gave him. If he finds federal statutes have been violated appropriate action will be taken."

Duff did not disclose what information he gave Rogers.

Seeing Levittown

By JIM ORT

The new Five Corners Shopping Center is slated to have a large size restaurant we hear. Understand that it will try to attract the civic clubs. Success of the venture, the owners feel, depends on whether a liquor license is forthcoming.

One little Levittown girl was perplexed recently when visiting a friend's non-Levittown ranch home. The five-year-old confidently started to the place the powder room is in her house and all her girl friend's homes, but found a large size bedroom instead. New directions helped, but she still is a little confused.

This is national dog week. Be kind to your pooch. Incidentally, anyone who wants a 3 months old, black, part cocker spaniel puppy, call WI 5-3936. The puppy is well mannered, according to its owner, but it fights with the couple's two and a half year old son. The people love the dog, but it's a choice between the canine and the boy.

Speaking of dogs, Gram's Dog Obedience School will get underway Saturday afternoon, Sept. 29.

The course runs for 10 weeks and is for beginners. That is, dogs six months and over. For more information call WI-6-0549.

Local To Seat New Officers

James Costa in a second election, was recently elected president of Local Union 5030, United Steelworkers of America, National Tube Works, Morrisville.

Mr. Costa won out over Edward Winters, the incumbent. The balloting was the result of an election held June 19, which was thrown out over discrepancies, a spokesman said.

Installation will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Union Hall, 35 Union street, Morrisville.

Other officers to be installed include: William Miller, vice president; Michael Capone, recording secretary; Frank Hartman, financial secretary; Nicholas Fowler, treasurer; and Richard Waters, trustee.

Elected to the grievance committees of the three zones were: President James Costa, zone one; Theodore Koehler, zone two; and William Brown, zone three.

Levittown Driver Is Fined $250

John J. Keenan, III, of 34 Mayflower road, Levittown, was fined $250 and costs today in Bucks County criminal court after he pleaded guilty to a drunk driving charge.

Keenan previously pleaded innocent, but he was indicted by the September Grand jury.

Albert Bauer, 113 Belmont lane, Levittown, was scheduled for a jury trial this afternoon on a similar charge.

Meeting Slated

The Corner Class of the Yardley Methodist church will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Philip Palmer, 46 S. Main street.

Mrs. Robert Saviers, president, will conduct the meeting. Devotions will be led by Mrs. William Hannings. Refreshments will be served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Blaker and Mrs. Burton White.

L'town Squad to Complete Bolton Mansion Move

Zoning Change Stirs Citizens In Bensalem

By MAURY ALLEN

Courier and Times Staff Writer

The roll of thunder is expected Thursday night from the citizens of Bensalem township at an open meeting on a proposed zoning change.

The zoning change, if accepted, will allow for 1600 semi-attached homes to be built near the center of the township in the vicinity of Byberry and Mechanicsville roads. The present area, considered for zoning purposes R1 and R2, does not permit semi-attached homes.

Strong feeling has been aroused about the change, and the largest crowd ever to attend a meeting in Bensalem township is expected. No definite place for the meeting has been set as yet.

Supporters contend the developer, Maurice Henkins of Philadelphia, will construct a much needed sewage system with the new homes. Running from Mill Creek Water Shed into Neshaminy Creek, the system will be a natural inducement for the movement of industry into the area. And industry will then be able to help shoulder the burdens of the heavily taxed area.

Opponents of the proposal believe the change would lead to greater tax burdens. They point out that another 1600 homes will mean a new school, new teachers, added bus needs, and, therefore, heavier dents in their pocketbooks. Many also oppose the plan simply on the principle of being against semi-attached dwellings.

A spokesman for the supervisors emphasized that they are mainly interested in lowering taxes. The meeting is a chance for the citizenry to present alternate solutions to the problem if any can be suggested.

Petitions have been circulated in the township and both sides are prepared to attend the meeting with heavy ammunition.

Three Hurt In 2 Crashes

Three persons were slightly injured in two automobile accidents which happened in Middletown Township at the same time last night.

One crash took place, on Route 1 opposite the Oxford Valley Chapel, when a car driven by Matthew Yeck, 62, of 2329 North Park avenue, Philadelphia, pulled into the left hand lane of traffic in front of another car.

The second car, traveling in the same direction, was driven by Seymour Singer, 31, of 569 Sherman lane, near Morrisville. Singer was unable to stop and crashed into Yeck's car.

Singer's two-and-a-half year-old son, Larry, bumped his head in the crash and was taken to Lower Bucks County hospital for treatment.

Injured in the other accident were Frank Elker, 54, of 12 Ash avenue, Langhorne, and his wife, Irene, 49. They were also discharged after treatment. The Bucks County Rescue Squad took all three to the hospital.

Police said James H. Lamb, 37, of Jacksonville, Pa., will receive a summons as a result of the accident which happened at the intersection of the Langhorne-Yardley and Woodbourne roads.

Mystery Man Held In Brink's Case

BOSTON — UP — The mystery man of the million-dollar Brink's robbery trial, William Kimball of Stoughton, was arrested by police today shortly after he appeared at Suffolk County courthouse as a defense witness.

Kimball's name first was injected into the trial Thursday when defense Atty. Paul T. Smith asked star government witness Joseph Specs O'Keefe if he knew the man.

The question was excluded by Superior Judge Felix Forte after a bench conference. Smith attempted again to bring Kimball's name into testimony Friday but the question again was excluded.

Larceny, Non-Support

Kimball was arrested outside the courtroom on charges of larceny and non-support. He was taken to a jail cell pending his appearance in court in the Brink's case.

Meanwhile, prosecutors said they hoped to wind up their case against the eight defendants by the end of this week or early next week.

The first witness today was Pennsylvania FBI Agent George R. Johnson who identified defendant Henry Baker as the man who visited O'Keefe while O'Keefe was held in Bradford County jail in Pennsylvania in March 1952.

Daughter Born To Scroccas

Henry Scrocca, of 8 Kindle lane, Levittown, suspended Bristol township policeman, became the father of a six-pound, 14-ounce daughter at 9:09 a.m. Saturday.

His wife, Marion, has been in Rolling Hill hospital, Cheltenham township near Philadelphia, where the baby was born since Thursday afternoon. She was taken to the hospital by the Bucks County Rescue Squad. This is the first child for the couple.

Scrocca has appealed his suspension to the Bristol Township Civil Service Commission. The commission is considering the appeal after conducting a hearing on the case.

Announcement of Adams' resignation was made at a meeting between Ungerleider and employees following settlement of a strike by 21 printers in a contract dispute touched off last Aug. 18.

Nets $50 Cash

Earl Knauer, of Miller drive, Davisville, was exposed as a moth ball maker on last night's TV program "What's My Line?"

But it took a good many flips of the cards by moderator John Daley before panelist Bennett Cerf came up with the moth ball answer.

Questions by Robert Q. Lewis, including the query "Does your product rid the house of some animal un-friends?" led to the disclosure.

Mr. Knauer was the last one to test the skill of the panel last night. And as time was short, Daley flipped all the cards and awarded him $50.

ADMITTED TO HOSPITAL

Christine Getz, one-year-old, of 55 Mallow lane, Levittown, was admitted to Lower Bucks county hospital last night for observation of a possible concussion.

DELEGATES TO RETURN

President Michael Gaspich, Jr., and a delegation from the Fairless Hills Steelworkers Union, Local 4899, will return home tonight from the union's national convention in Los Angeles, Calif.

Unit Waiting Installation Of Phones

The Levittown Emergency Squad is expected to complete its move into new quarters at the Bolton Mansion, behind the Bristol Township Municipal building, by this afternoon.

All of the equipment, with the exception of the two ambulances, were moved over the weekend. The ambulances remained at the former headquarters at Beck's Mortuary, Red Cedar drive, Levittown.

The only thing holding up the final move was the installation of telephones in the new buildings. Telephone company employees were working on the change this morning and said the task should be completed today.

To Move Ambulances

As soon as the phones are connected in the new building, which was formerly used by the Levittown Youth association, the ambulances will be transferred.

The squad stated that it hopes to be able to house their ambulances in an old barn located on the property.

Squad members worked throughout the weekend fixing up the new quarters. They were painting, doing carpentry and other jobs. They knocked one partition down to make a large "squad room" on the first floor.

The members still have to finish painting down stairs. When finished there the members will renovate the upstairs rooms.

The two-story stone building was loaned to the squad as a temporary headquarters by Levitt and Sons, Inc. The group moved from Beck's, where it had been since it was organized about 18 months ago, because there was not enough room.

They occupied a garage and basement room at the mortuary. While preparing to leave the old quarters, the squad set a letter of appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Beck.

The letter read in part: Accepting many inconveniences because our being there, you inspired us with your singleness of purpose, your untiring efforts and your warm friendliness that made our headquarters a home. The Levittown Emergency Squad and the community as a whole owe you both a great deal of thankfulness."

At the same time the squad continued its membership drive. Helmut Goerner, membership chairman, said there is still a need for drivers, nurses and first aid men. He urged all interested residents to contact Mrs. Lynore Feldman, 23 Basswood road, Levittown, Windsor 5-1734.

He said first aid classes have started but new members can still join them.

Plans Made To Organize Elks Lodge

Petitions have been circulated to start the lodge.

The district deputy of the Grand Exalted Ruler, Jacob Voss, Chester, will speak on how to go about organizing a lodge.

Also expected to be present are the Past District Deputy, B. Harrison McCoy, of Reading, and the Exalted Ruler of the Norristown Lodge, Ray Engel.

18 Injured On Turnpike

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — A Philadelphia-to-New York excursion bus skidded and overturned in a heavy rainstorm on the New Jersey Turnpike early today, injuring 18 persons, two seriously.

State police said the bus, carrying 38 members of an Irish field hockey club, ran off the turnpike's northbound lane in nearby Cranbury township.

O'Connor said the trapped passengers "screamed and cried for help."

State police and four ambulances removed the trapped passengers through a broken windshield.

Bus driver Willard R. Miller, 29, of New York, said the bus suddenly skidded out of control, ran 20 feet off the highway, and overturned.

Good Evening!

Flossy kicking up her heels.

Hurricane off the Louisiana coast busting things around, and the sooner it busts out to sea the better.

Another month to go in this Delaware Valley region, and the storm season will be done. Hold your breath, cross your fingers, and keep on living right—up to now we've been lucky.

You know, those Cincinnati Redlegs could do it.

They're only a game and a half out of first, with the Dodgers sliding a half game on the Braves' win over the Cubs.

We still like Brooklyn. But if they skid too far, we'd like to see the Reds on top.

Political pot boiling more merrily than ever.

Thank heavens it'll all be over in six weeks or so, and everybody can get back to normal. Also, everybody will be able to see a much better county-wide, country-wide perspective.

Meantime, keep remembering the big United Fund campaign begins next Monday.

Also remember that this is a cause every man, woman and child in Lower Bucks county must support quickly, enthusiastically and generously. No sir, you just can't afford to be unneighborly.

The gals sometimes complain of being short on dresses, but we hear no complaints about dresses being short on gals.

In order to buy one we wish we had as much change as they say the new 1957 cars will have.

Watch your driving.

Friends Watch While Victim Goes Under

Think Strong Swimmer Was Joking As Beach Party Ends In Fatality

The family of a 23-year-old Philadelphia youth who drowned in the Delaware river early yesterday morning believe that the youth, an expert swimmer, hit a submerged object when he dived in the water.

He was swimming back from a boat to a "beach party" being held on land at the mouth of the Neshaminy creek.

The victim, Michael J. Hanczar, Jr., of 5146 Leiper street, Philadelphia, had served as a skin diver with Army amphibious engineers during the Korean war.

He met his death when he tried to swim back from an out-board motor boat, anchored 20 feet offshore at the mouth of the creek.

Cuts and bruises about the face led authorities to believe he struck some object on the bottom of the river when he dove off the boat. His family reported that both his eyes were blacked and his forehead and nose were scraped. The blow may have stunned him for he called for help.

His friends, knowing Hanczar was a good swimmer, first thought he was joking.

Beach Party

He, his father, Michael J. Hanczar, Sr., of the same address, and three married couples went to the spot for a beach party.

The father and one of the couples left by boat to go back to their cars, parked at a nearby boat yard, at 12:30 a.m. While they were gone one of the other couples, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas VanHorn, of 1109 Karen avenue, Crofton Acres, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cottman, 1309 Susan avenue, Crofton Acres, said they wanted potatoes to roast. It was shortly before 2 a.m.

Hanczar said he had some on his boat and stripped down to his bathing trunks, which he wore under his clothes, as the others protested.

He swam the short distance to the boat, picked up a few potatoes, and dove in to swim back.

Poor Swimmers

After he called his friends were unable to find him in the dark and became alarmed. None of those on shore was a good swimmer and none ventured out after him.

The elder Hanczar and the other couple returned to the scene shortly afterward. They searched the water around the boat. When he didn't find anything the father went back to the boat yard and summoned help.

Units of the Interstate Marine Association dragged the area over three hours before the crew from the Bucks County Rescue Squad found the body, about 75 feet off shore in 13 feet of water.

L. Bucks Blonde Held For Gambling

An attractive Nottingham Village blonde is undergoing a hearing on gambling charges today in the 15th police district court, Philadelphia, it was reported by the city's Police Commissioner's Special Squad.

Mrs. Margaret Clark, 28, of 3701 Devonshire road, was arrested Saturday following a raid by detectives at an apartment on Cottman street near Ryan avenue, Philadelphia.

The apartment, where Mrs. Clark was found alone, was described as a "drop" for a large numbers and horse bet ring. It had been under watch for some time, the commissioner's office reported this morning.

Mrs. Clark was busy on a telephone when the raiders, led by Lt. Joseph O'Neill, head of the special squad, crashed through the door of the second floor flat at 4:35 p.m. Saturday.

O'Neill said his men found 500 horse bets on a table, with 600 numbers plays, totaling $3000.

The commissioner's office also reported that a Colt automatic was found in the room near the woman. Large tally sheets were in the apartment, and it was reported that the place was a center point for a horse-numbers system.

Philadelphia's special squad is used in the investigating of vice and gambling.

New Baby Presents Problem In Burping

A shiny new baby came to Bensalem township, Friday.

It was quite the thing, stretching long and wide and weighing a lot more than most.

And here on the first day, it had many proud fathers. They gazed in awe and watched the new offspring glisten.

They haven't heard it gurgle yet because it just sits for viewing. But pretty soon, after a check-up, it will be the most famous traveler and loudest resident of the township.

Long Wait

The fondling has been 34 years in coming. But through the unselfish effort of the devoted citizens of Bensalem, it is now a reality.

Bensalem township is the proud possessor of a spanking, new, "all our own" bus.

Since 1922, when students in Bensalem first began to use buses (one of the first county schools to do so), the students were hauled back and forth by rented buses. Now civic pride in Bensalem need not take a back seat to anybody. Bensalemites will ride in their own bus.

And ride in style, they will. The new bus gleams like gold and has large black stripes across its waist. And in letters, big enough for "even King George to read without his specs" is printed, "Bensalem Township Schools".

And that's not all. The new machine includes all the latest in ultra modern, mechanized riding. Hydramatic transmission, air brakes, air controlled windshield wipers, and racks for luggage and athletic equipment adorn the sides.

The bus is GMC built and is an Oneida model. It set back the taxpayers of Bensalem $6840.77. Delivery of a second bus, scheduled for next week, a Wayne model, cost $7311.42.

School officials of Bensalem were on hand to greet the new member of the community.

Superintendent Robert K. Shaffer, admitted that though Bensalem was the first to use buses to transport students, "We might have been the last to own one."

"But, we've got one of our own now. And it was worth waiting for," he said.

Learner Hits Parked Cars

"I couldn't straighten the wheel out in time."

That was the explanation a Philadelphia woman gave police Sunday afternoon after she rammed two cars parked at a stop sign while turning off Route 13 into Knights road in Bensalem township.

Driving with a learner's permit, Hanita F. Saymon, 21, 7801 Roosevelt boulevard, Philadelphia, bounced into the first car, ricocheted off, and smacked the second vehicle. She was accompanied by a licensed driver, Leon Saymon of the same address.

The first automobile, belonging to Helen J. Bay, 33, 218 Baldwin street, Philadelphia, was hit in the left fender and slightly damaged.

Suffering the brunt of the learner's misdirection was James H. McMerdie, 43, 6125 Alma street, Philadelphia. Damage to his vehicle, which had to be towed away, was estimated at $450.

The Saymon car damage was estimated at $250. No personal injuries were reported and no charges were made.

Businessmen Seek Views Of Officials

Throughway Sought To Aid Progress Of L. Southampton

The complete re-development of Bustleton pike as a throughway in Lower Southampton township was urged today by the Feasterville Businessmen's Association.

The group will contact the Bucks County Planning Commission, the Lower Southampton Planning Commission, the Lower Southampton supervisors to explain its views and obtain the opinions of the three governing and planning bodies.

It was indicated that the business group may ask for a widening project like that undertaken for Second Street pike, Southampton, plus overall development and the smoothing out of congested areas.

Ed Filemyr, Parkland avenue, Bob Platt, Somerton Pools, Richard Lukens, Bustleton pike, S. J. Mirabelle, of Street road, and Martin Katz, Westview avenue, have been named to the re-development committee.

The plan calls for betterment of the pike, one of Lower Southampton main roads, and its development for the future. The businessmen stress the fact that such a project is necessary for community betterment and the promotion of business.

"We are trying to live up to our idea of bettering the community," said Dr. Robert Williams, the organization's publicity director. "We hope to determine what will happen to the pike," he added.

Trash Pickup Days Changed

Garbage and trash collections in Lower Southampton Township have reverted to a once-a-week schedule, it was announced by Paul Flynn, township manager.

Mr. Flynn explained that the twice-a-week schedule was for summer months only. The winter system will continue until next June.

The present setup is known as the "regular schedule" and township residents were previously informed of the collection day, which differs in various sections.

"Residents are urged not to put garbage out on second-day summer collection days," Mr. Flynn said.

TV Appearance Nets $50 Cash

Earl Knauer, of Miller drive, Davisville, was exposed as a moth ball maker on last night's TV program "What's My Line?"

But it took a good many flips of the cards by moderator John Daley before panelist Bennett Cerf came up with the moth ball answer.

Questions by Robert Q. Lewis, including the query "Does your product rid the house of some animal-un-friends?" led to the disclosure.

Mr. Knauer was the last one to test the skill of the panel last night. And as time was short, Daley flipped all the cards and awarded him $50.
